

INFECTIOUS DISEASES AND LOUISIANA: IMPACT AND CURRENT MEDICAL KNOWLEDGE

Presented by the
Environment and Health Council of Louisiana
November 14, 2023 • 8:00am – 3:00pm
University of New Orleans, New Orleans, Louisiana

“Infectious Diseases and Louisiana” is an informational and educational forum designed to share updates and current knowledge between healthcare experts and the general public. It is a one-day conference, free and open to the public, focusing on the populations and climate conditions of Louisiana and how these factors impact our susceptibility to infection and disease. Featured speakers include experts from LSU and Tulane medical centers in New Orleans, LSU and Pennington Biomedical in Baton Rouge, and Louisiana State health offices. Topics include covid and long-covid, pediatric diseases, agricultural diseases and their impact on humans, mosquito-borne diseases, diseases caused by other infectious agents, and a history of vaccines, among other topics.

The mission of the Environment and Health Council of Louisiana, a nonprofit organization, is to facilitate the independent, balanced and factual assessments of health, environmental and economic issues as they relate to Louisiana. A Board of Directors, serving on a volunteer basis, plans workshops and conferences on health and environmental issues. The Council appreciated the consideration of your support.

SPONSOR INFORMATION
Name of Company or Organization:
Address:
Contact Person:
Phone:	Email:

SPONSORSHIP COMMITMENT
$2500	Sponsor's name and logo listed first and largest on all promotional materials, acknowledgement in welcoming and closing remarks, acknowledgment on presentation slides between speaker presentations, exhibitor table at event, 10 guaranteed seat reservations, and list of attendees.
$1000	Name and logo on all promotional materials, acknowledgement in welcoming and closing remarks, 5 guaranteed seat reservations, and exhibitor table at event.
$500	Name and logo on all signage and promotional materials, 2 guaranteed seat reservations.
Other:	Name mentioned by line in the conference program, 1 guaranteed seat reservation.

Please make checks payable to:
Environment and Health Council of Louisiana, PO Box 14911, Baton Rouge, LA 70898.
For questions, please call 225-381-7043 or email EHCLouisiana1@gmail.com.